Property Owner Cuts City Tree, Taken To Court

A Carmel property owner was arraigned in municipal court this morning for allegedly cutting a city-owned tree yesterday without permission from the city council.

Twice, Jack M. Feiner asked the council to allow him to trim a cypress in front of his house on San Antonio Street north of Eleventh Avenue. Twice the council denied the request to cut off a large limb of the tree which overhangs the Feiner property, the last time on December 7. The council, also the city forester, did not agree with Mr. Feiner that the limb presented a hazard to his dwelling during storms.

Editor's Column

It seems that there are many lovers of redwood trees in Carmel and they have taken exception to my objecting in this column recently to the inclusion of these trees in the city's reforestation program.

Redwoods were here before there was a Carmel, I've been told. There were no trees at all in Carmel before some were planted is another comment I've heard.

I've only known Carmel for 32 years. When I arrived here the Mission Ranch was still in agricultural use. Below Santa Lucia Street were fields where hay was raised and horses grazed. On the slope above where River School is located, a large pine spread its dark green branches above golden stubble every fall. It was the only tree in what is now the Mission Tract except for the cypresses, eucalypti and orchard trees around the old Martin house on the ranch.

Carmel Point was almost treeless and in the Spring was carpeted with golden poppies and blue lupine. What trees there were on the Point had been planted such as those around the Jeffers, Schoeninger, van Riper, Dickinson and Reamer homes.

All through Carmel the vacant lots were covered with chaparral... deer brush, chamisal, manzanita, bush lupine... except where pines dropped a fragrant cover of russet needles and oaks shed a lighter covering of leaves. Genista was only beginning its ruthless invasion.

The only redwoods in town had been planted. I remember watching the one on San Carlos, in what was then former Mayor Ross Bonham's front lawn, slowly grow. Another redwood stood in front of All Saints' Episcopal Church (Continued on Page Fifteen)

Yesterday morning, Police Commissioner James C. Buffington saw that the tree was being trimmed. He put in a complaint to the police department. Police Chief Clyde Klaumann investigated.

Chief Klaumann's report on the matter states that Harold Lee of Monterey told him that the owner of the property told Mr. Lee to cut off the large limb, also several more limbs, as he had permission to do so. Mr. Klaumann checked this information and ascertained that Mr. Feiner did not have the required permission.

As a result of this investigation, City Attorney William Burleigh issued a complaint stating that Mr. Feiner was in violation of City Ordinance 1230 which states that no city-owned tree may be trimmed without permission of the city council.

As a result of this complaint, Mr. Feiner was arraigned before Judge Paul Zaches in municipal court in Monterey this morning with the city attorney presenting the complaint.

Mr. Feiner asked, and was given, an extension of time to consult with a lawyer. Date of a trial will be set by the court on December 27.

Tight Control Of Auctions In New Law

More stringent regulations to control auction sales in Carmel were contained in a new ordinance which was given first reading by the city council Tuesday night.

The new law will not affect the Fine Arts Gallery of Carmel until the outcome of pending litigation between the city and the public sales business is known, and depending on whether the decision favors the city or the business, perhaps not then.

The number of people permitted at any public auction will be 50 persons and they must occupy seats attached to the floor of the sales room. Also, the sales area must be screened from persons on the outside of the building housing the business, the new law demands.

Defined in the ordinance as "sales by public outcry," auction businesses will be confined to the C-2 (heavy industry) and C-1-S (retail sales and services) zones of the business district and only allowed between the hours of 10 a.m. and 9 p.m.

The ordinance also controls bankrupt sales, household and real estate auctions within the city (Continued on Page Eighteen)

YOUTH CENTER'S COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS GIFT

In front of the fireplace at the Carmel Youth Center, Santa Claus and his two elves (Joan Czerben and Kathy Gibson) plot with Snowman Joan Bassford the surprises planned for the Christmas Capers, the Youth Center's yearly gift to the community. The annual program will be presented tomorrow and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Sunset Center auditorium, with Pam Baldwin, last year's president, opening the first show and Ty Seeders, current president, introducing the second evening's event.

Interspersed with new chorus numbers and specialty acts will be some perennial favorites, the Suzie Snowflakes boys' chorus line and the slapstick comedy skit "White Christmas." Burton the Magician will be there again to add variety and one of the innovations this year is a judo demonstration by Barney Baptiste's students (chop, chop, Santa Claus!).

To make this the "best ever" show, the young people have worked hard with joy and ingenuity under the direction of producer Susie DuBets, who is assisted by Gale Hagen and Pam Baldwin. Among others behind the scenes, as usual, are "housemother" Avis Tobiasen who has created something out of nothing for stage decor for this wonderful and zany production, and Jack Giles, director of the Youth Center.

And, as usual, the Carmel Lions Club—knowing how busy Santa is—has donated balloons and candy for him to pass out to the small fry.

Supervisors Ask Cities To State Stand On Unincorporated Services

Opinions of cities on provision by the county of municipal-type services to unincorporated areas will be heard by the board of supervisors on March 8 at 2 p.m., Councilman Gunnar Norberg told the city council Tuesday night.

This hearing is the result of seven years of effort spearheaded by Mr. Norberg who has striven against the tax inequity to city property owners represented by county provision of city-type services, such as structural fire protection, to urbanized unincorporated areas on the outskirts of cities. The greatest such area surrounds Carmel, he reminded the council.

The inequity is represented by city property owners paying county taxes to provide services in unincorporated areas, also municipal taxes to maintain city police, fire and street departments.

On Tuesday, county supervisors approved the formation of special districts for the urban unincorporated areas, including those adjacent to Carmel. Further action will be taken after residents of these areas have told the supervisors what type service districts they desire. An applicable tax to cover the expense of these special districts will be considered by the supervisors following this information.

Mayor Herbert Blanks, Tuesday night referred the matter of the cities' point of view on the districts to the council's committee on administration composed of himself and Councilman Eben Whitteley. At the January meeting of the council, they will present a report for action. The position of the city will be presented officially to the board of supervisors at the March hearing, Mayor Blanks promised.

GIRL SCOUTS TO CAROL

The Carmel Girl Scouts, led by Mrs. C. E. Weichner, will present a program of Christmas carols tomorrow from 4-5 p.m. in the Carmel Craft Studios. They wish to extend an invitation to everyone in the community to hear them sing for the first half-hour and to join in the caroling during the second half-hour.

REAPPOINTMENTS

Tuesday night, the city council approved Mayor Herbert Blanks' reappointment of Dr. Ferdinand Haasis and Wallace Doolittle to the Carmel Forestry Commission, also the reappointment of Fred Duhring to the board of the Harrison Memorial Library. Mr. Duhring is presently serving as chairman of this city body.

Luciano Tempo, photographed above in his native Venice, is the originator, with his partner, Traylor Dunwoody, of a novel and attractive "shop" which opened last month in Cypress West Hotel. The shop is actually a combination of two salons. In one, Luciano's adept hands and expert training are employed to offer superb hair-styling, cutting and color in an atmosphere of quiet luxury. In the other are displayed rare antiques, many of which were a part of Luciano's own collection, charming gifts and paintings. New shipments of antiques are received regularly from a European representative, who searches France, Spain, Italy, Holland, England and the Scandinavian countries for authentic objects. The salon also features furniture and fine reproductions which may be used as delightful home accessories.

The unique gallery-salon is the outgrowth of interests and ideas shared by Luciano and Traylor Dunwoody, who met in 1959 when the artist was studying in Venice. Luciano, whose family has been in the hairstyling field for many years, came to the United States four years ago to study in Los Angeles and has been on the Peninsula for three years.

DLF CIVILIAN AWARDS

Four Carmel area residents were among the civilian employees of the Defense Language Institute to be commended last week for outstanding service. Lieutenant Colonel Charles F. Tisdale, deputy commandant, presented certificates.

Certificates of Service and ten-year pins went to Sigismund A. Wolf of Carmel, an instructor in the Polish department, and to Dimitar-Mitko N. Nedeff of Carmel Valley, instructor in the Bulgarian department.

Certificates of Recognition for the accumulation of 1,000 hours sick leave were presented to Dr. Pao-Ch'en Lee of Carmel, chairman of the Chinese-Mandarin department, and to Luis Vargas of Carmel Highlands, chairman of the Iberian department.

Turn Back Time, No Street Lights

The town turmoil about new lights on Dolores Street could be eliminated if citizens were willing to turn back time ten years or so, City Clerk Hugh Bayless suggests.

It was the policy of the city council and the planning commission a decade ago to have Carmel businesses take care of street lighting he points out.

If we were to decide to revert to those times, when the overhead utility poles come down in the first Dolores block, street lights which are attached to them could disappear, too. Each business could be required to light the sidewalk outside its premises or forfeit the privilege of having one of Police Chief Klaumann's men include this particular business in his nightly "door shake." (This is the police service of trying, nightly, doors in the business district to make sure they are locked.)

The light provided by businesses could easily be better protection than overhead street lights on 30-foot high freeway-type standards or any other alternative the city council may eventually choose, Mr. Bayless proposes. The lights from shop windows, or illumination from lights attached to buildings, could provide better sidewalk light than conventional street lighting. Moreover, such a plan would ensure better lighting of courtyards and alleys than will be provided by any street illumination on a city sidewalk pole, he adds.

"This is just an idea," our city clerk says.

Think of all the taxpayers' money that would be saved if this lighting method were instituted! What's your reaction?

Carmel Teen-Agers Make Creche, Initiate Evening Caroling Program

Spurred by the teen-agers of five Carmel churches, a carol singing project has been initiated this year for the whole community. Last night the Carmel High School Choir began the week-long program by singing at the lighting of the city's Christmas tree.

Tonight, the Carmel Presbyterian Church choir will sing carols in Devendorf Plaza by the creche which the young people of all five churches have created. Tomorrow evening at the same time, the choir of All Saints' Episcopal Church will sing. Sunday evening will be the turn of the Community Church choir. Monday, the French and German clubs of Carmel High School will carol in the Plaza. Tuesday, the Carmel Mission Basilica choir will perform. The choir of the Church of the Wayfarer will take over on Wednesday. All the youth groups from the five churches will present the carol program on Thursday. The caroling will begin at 7:30 o'clock on each of the seven evenings.

All persons in the community are invited to join the young people in their caroling project. Booklets with the words of the carols sung will be available. The project is designed to emphasize the sacred spirit of Christmas.

The creche has been made by the young people, with the help of local artists, from a tree root discovered at Cypress Point on the 17-Mile-Drive with the permission of Del Monte Properties Company. The figure of the Christ child has been created from rocks. Moss and other native materials form the blanket for the crib.

A project to raise funds for the construction of a permanent creche in future years has also been undertaken by the youth of the five churches. A special projects committee supervised the making of 600 advent candles which were sold, three in a box for $1, to provide money for this purpose.

Permission for the creche and the carol singing, for one year, was obtained from the city council by Roger Fonseca, one of the youths concerned. When petitioning the council, he said,

"We are seeking permission to hold an annual Christmas program in Devendorf Park. It is our conviction that Carmel, a nationally renowned cultural center, needs a place for Christmas activities and displays which would present both Carmel's artistic predominance in the Peninsula and its Christian spirit of Christmas. We wish to use the park as:

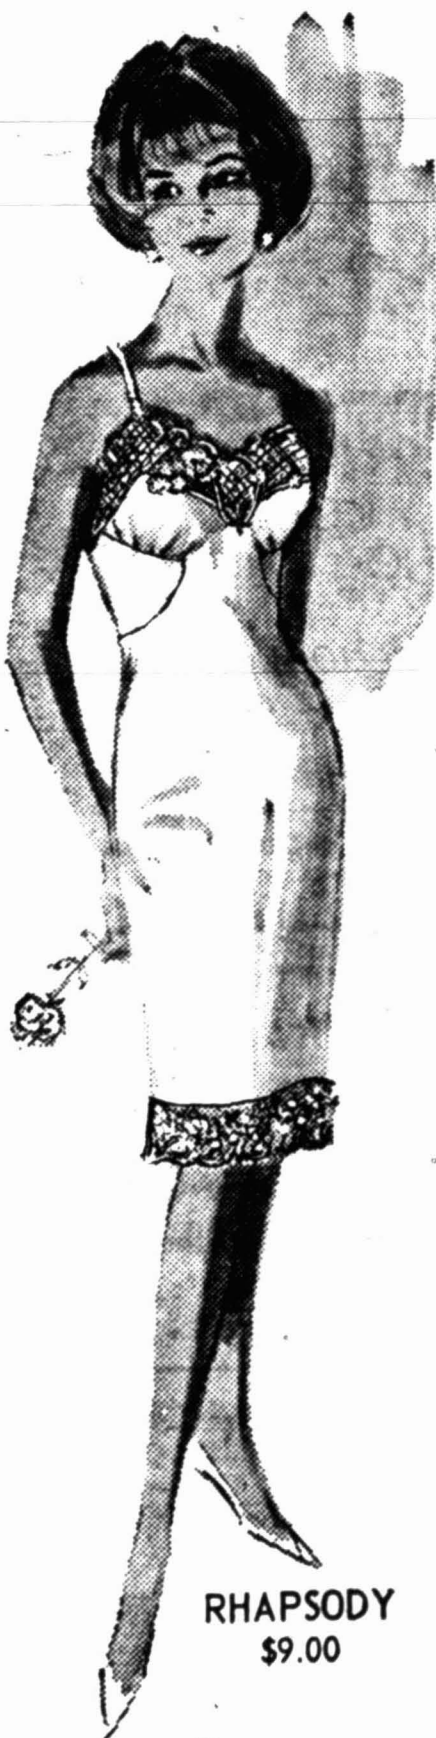

"(1) a place where church and school groups can come to carol.

"(2) the setting for a creche depicting the nativity scene. The statues, which would be added to the scene at a rate of one a year, will be made by local sculptors and will depict the artistic talents of the Carmel community."

The caroling program, which began last night, is the result of many months of work by the young people. Last Spring, a young lady approached her pastor about some way of instilling the sacredness of Christmas into a community program. The clergymen of the five churches were consulted and the teenagers of the churches held a meeting in June to explore the idea. Committees were formed at subsequent meetings and the advice of local artists sought. In November, the project was presented to the city council.

Clergymen acting as advisers to the teen-agers are the Reverend David Hill, the Reverend Roger Dieudonne, the Reverend George Hunter Hall, the Reverend Lawrence Whitfield and the Reverend Burkert Cree.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg
This week, the Harrison Memorial Library began circulating a new collection of phonograph records. All of them are LPs and they are quite varied as to style and subject. Because the collection is so small they must be borrowed one at a time. They circulate for one week. The Carmel library has never had records before this and the venture is rather in the nature of a trial run to see how popular they are and to seek the answer to the concomitant question which is how long they last.

This original group of records was a gift of the Columbia Record Company and there are 60 records in the group. The board of library trustees will decide whether or not the collection will be augmented by purchased records.

A book catalog has been prepared and will be shelved in the record cabinet. In the case of musical recordings, the albums have been cataloged under the name of the instrument played. Non-musical recordings are listed under separate headings in the back section of the book catalog. Although this may sound confusing, it is actually a simple scheme, as will be seen upon examination of the book. Records will be filed in the cabinet corresponding to the arrangement of their listing in the book.

The new public restrooms are now ready to serve library patrons. The rest of the remodeling is almost completed. The entire project is most attractive as well as utilitarian, a credit to the architectural ability of James Pruitt and the workmanship of Jack Miller. Please come downstairs to view the improvements. We know you will agree that they are well worth the noise and plaster dust we all experienced while the work was being done.

Mid-Year Graduates

Bartley Blout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Blout of Carmel, received his bachelor of science degree on Friday at fall commencement exercises at the University of Oregon.

A bachelor of science degree has also been earned by Whitney Brown of Carmel, who will receive his diploma from Pacific University in Forest Grove, Oregon, at graduation ceremonies on Sunday.

An Open House

A successful party, it has often been remarked, is one the hostess enjoys as much as her guests. In this category was the delightful open house held Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Touche and her cousin, Ivonne Arras, on Carmel Point. Among those who dropped in for champagne and hors d'oeuvres were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Danysh, Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Odello, Mr. and Mrs. John Geisen, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Arriola, Mrs. Lynne Mack, Mrs. Lucinda Williams, Mrs. F. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moore, Stuyvesant Fish, Frank Lloyd. Also present, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Luis Aranda of Spain, who are instructors at the Defense Language School and the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maheras and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maheras, visitors from Guadalajara, Mexico.

New Rudolph Daughter

An exciting prelude to Christmas for young Ursula Rudolph was the arrival of a baby sister, Stephanie Ingeborg, who was born on December 6 at Community Hospital. Both are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Rudolph Jr., of Pebble Beach.

Stephanie's father is a vice-president of region 11 of the California Historical Societies and commodore of the recently formed Commodore T. ap Catesby Jones Society, which should entitle her to a charter membership in the organization.

They Surprised Friends

A wedding originally scheduled to take place this evening has been transformed into a wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Grimshaw, the former Dorothy Ford, who elected to advance their date at the altar and were married Monday night. Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell read the service at the home of the bridegroom before a group of family members and a few close friends.

Patrick Grimshaw of Pacific Grove was his father's best man, and the bride asked Mrs. Edd Fischer of Carmel to be her matron of honor.

The daughter of Mrs. Ethel Lash of Carmel, who was present at the ceremony, Dorothy is a native of Nanuet, New York. She completed her elementary schooling there and graduated from Balboa High School in San Francisco. For the past four years, she has made her home in Carmel, where she is an employee in the city's administrative offices.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Grimshaw of Carmel witnessed the marriage of their son, a lifelong resident except for a period during his childhood when the family lived in Cedar City, Utah. He is the brother of Charles H. Grimshaw Sr., of Aptos, and the uncle of Charles H. (Chuck) Grimshaw Jr. of Carmel. Maurice graduated from Sunset School and Monterey Union High School and was for many years associated with his father in the Associated Oil Company service station here. Long a volunteer member of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, he is now an official employee of the department.

Others who attended the couple's wedding included the bride's son, Fred Ford, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Sherman of Carmel. Also Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Grimshaw and their children, Terri Ann, Will and Dan, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Earl McCaman of Carmel.

Tonight, the newlyweds will welcome family and friends at their home on Dolores Street and are looking forward to a delayed honeymoon in January.

Down With Up!

Challenged by their hosts to appear bearing placards of some kind of protest, a large group of guests displayed their imaginativeness and pet peeves at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Street Saturday evening.

"Toby" Street's double card read "Are Republicans and Democrats really necessary?" and "Why stay in the middle of the road—get down in the gutter with us!" Young Judy Ales turned up with a black eye and the legend "I'd rather fight than protest," and Mrs. Hans von Richter, wearing an outlandish costume, deplored the common cold as a bore and pinned on a complicated protest union badge "signed" by controversial figures.

Dr. Eric Berne wished to "Stamp out Zepollina" and Charles Felder's beat-up tennis racket proclaimed "Down with crooked rackets!" Susan B. Anthony was out to get votes for women. "School is unfair to children — Homework for grownups!" read Scott Bayless' sign.

Among the many other evidences of dissent were Peter Ferrante's gin-bottle-label necktie proclaiming "I hate conformity"; Howard Brunn's "Haircuts $2.50 —GRRRR!"; Mrs. George Willox's "Down with Christmas without snow!"; and Mrs. Val Miller's "Abolish complexities and prolixities like freeways, zip codes, direct dialing digits, and those 89 varieties of breakfast foods!"

The dozens of funny protests introduced an air of hilarity at the gathering, where guests sipped Fish House punch or draft beer before enjoying a delicious buffet dinner.

E. E. Grosvenor

Private graveside services were held yesterday in Alta Mesa Cemetery at Palo Alto for Edward E. Grosvenor of Carmel, who died Tuesday in a Palo Alto hospital after a short illness.

Retired at the time of his death, Mr. Grosvenor, a long-time Carmel resident, was for many years the owner of Grosvenor's Inn at Carpenter and Valley Way.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cathryn Grosvenor of Carmel.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mr. Grosvenor may do so to the Community Hospital Building Fund, Box HH, Carmel.

VAGABOND HOUSE SOLD

Vagabond House Inn, on the site of which Poet Don Blanding lived for a time, and named for his well-remembered book, has been sold by its owners, Mrs. Pryce Goodman and her son, Tavo Goodman. The new owners of the Dolores and Fourth Street property are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mountford of Carmel. The sale was made by the Real Estate by the Sea firm.

More Mariachis Than Guests

Penafiel, the Mexican spa famed for its sparkling water, was built to accommodate at least 300 people, so Mrs. Blanche Klaus and five other tourists, sole occupants of the resort, were a little disappointed to find themselves serenaded by an enormous mariachi band three nights running. It seemed a shame, she says, that there weren't more guests to hear the gay music and wonderful voices.

Mrs. Klaus, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Mavis Schaaf of San Francisco, has just returned from some 15 days of travel in Mexico. They found much of interest, particularly in their side trips about the capital and in Taxco, although their enthusiasm was often dampened by the impact of extreme poverty.

On their return to San Francisco, Mrs. Klaus' son, Ronald Fogerson met her at the airport and flew her in his small plane to Concord for a brief visit with his family and, later, on to Monterey. She admits quite frankly that this was really the best part of her trip.

Award At Fort Ord

An outstanding suggestion award was presented to Barbara J. Brown of Carmel, one of sixteen civilian employees of the U.S. government honored at Fort Ord this week during award presentation ceremonies.

Fledgling Attorneys

John Dwyer and his wife Patricia, who hope to become permanent residents, received the good news last week that John had passed his examination for the California State Bar. A graduate of Wagner College in New York City, he was president of the Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity at Hastings Law School in San Francisco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Dwyer of San Jose.

A tour of duty with the U.S. Air Force is ahead for the new lawyer who plans to return later to practice on the Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Work Jr. of Pebble Beach were happy to learn that their daughter Donna passed the fall bar examination. Donna and her husband, Dr. Gerald Silverberg, and their eight-month-old son, Michael, are living in Palo Alto, where Dr. Silverberg is a resident at Stanford hospital.

Helped Achieve Award

Airman Second Class William R. Green, an administrative specialist, has been presented the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award at Vandenberg AFB for helping the Air Force Systems Command's 6595th Aerospace Test Wing win an exceptionally meritorious rating, the second such received. The wing, which has recorded more than 100 launches, researches, develops, tests and evaluates aerospace systems.

Airman Green and his wife Sharon, will soon be here from Lompoc to spend the holidays with Mrs. Green's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Goldring of Pebble Beach.

Guest From Santa Cruz

Miss Dixie Krieg of Santa Cruz was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells and their son, Bob, a student at Monterey Peninsula College. After a sumptuous Sunday brunch, Miss Krieg's hosts took her to visit some of the Peninsula's points of interest which she had not seen previously.

A Girl In The Family

Late Monday afternoon, Police Officer Walter Boyle made his motorcycle rounds dispensing parking tickets and announcing "I'm a grandfather!" Mrs. Boyle says that their new granddaughter is the first girl to be born to any member of the family in 19 years—she doesn't even have a name yet because it never occurred to her parents, Pat and Judy Boyle, that it might be a girl.

The new Miss Boyle, weighing in at five pounds, 13 ounces, made her debut Sunday at Saint Anthony's Hospital in Pocatello, Idaho. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Zundel of Ashton, Idaho.

Tennis At Palm Springs

In preparation for their match with The Tennis Club of Palm Springs on January 15 and 16, members of the Pebble Beach Tennis Club are wielding their racquets with increasing vigor. The tennis enthusiasts will fly to the desert resort for the week-end of sport.

Among those who have already signed up for their trip under the direction of Pebble Beach pro Don Leary are Mr. and Mrs. Aime G. Michaud, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ramsey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand d'Avenas, Mr. and Mrs. James Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Luster, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Holly, Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Panzer and Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Allen. Still others are Miss Jennifer Harries, Yvan Nopert, William Fasset and Dudley Nix.

Duttons Will Travel

With the beginning of the school holidays, Monterey Peninsula College instructor Fletcher Dutton and Mrs. Dutton leave tomorrow for what promises to be a most interesting trip. En route to Mexico City, they will stop in Los Angeles to meet their daughter, Jeanne, who will travel with them. After a few days in the Mexican capital, the trio will proceed to Yucatan to visit the ancient Mayan ruins of Chichen Itza, Uxmal and Kabah.

The Duttons plan to spend Christmas in Houston, Texas, with the family of their son, Fletcher Jr. Following that, they will be in Santa Fe, New Mexico, for a week, where they hope to see some of the Indian dances and ceremonies. New Year's Eve will be celebrated in nearby Taos and then the Duttons will fly home.

Vallarta Time Again

As the nip in the air grows sharper, Puerto Vallarta-addicted Carmelites begin to think increasingly of tropic-surrounded beaches of the Mexican west coast resort. Louis Conlan was among the first to make an airline reservation for the flight that left Sunday. Louis plans to spend Christmas and New Year's there—maybe on a bench in the plaza, since he did not arrange for housing.

The Robert Talbots of Carmel Valley, together with friends, have chartered a small plane because they couldn't get space on a commercial line. One of Margaret and Bert Dienelt's apartments above the river awaits their arrival in Puerto Vallarta, where they will remain for two weeks.

Art News

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History is pleased to announce an exhibition of linoleum block prints by Henry Evans titled "California Plants and Horticultural Favorites."

Mr. Evans is a printer craftsman who is too modest to call himself an artist. He began to cut linoleum blocks about four years ago because he felt obliged to better understand how to print the work of artists who came to him.

Henry Evans has printed all of his work on an old Washington handpress built in New York in 1882. Among his published works is a complete book of 80 orchids native to the Hawaiian Islands. He is currently working on illustrations for a book of herbs.

The artist's work has been exhibited at The Royal Horticultural Society in London, the Hunt Botanical Library in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Natural History, the California Academy of Sciences, and many other museums and related institutions.

The exhibition may be viewed through January 16 at the museum located at Forest and Central Avenues daily from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. except Monday. Admission is free.

During the month of December, water colors and acrylics by Alvin

Beller of Carmel are being shown at the Carmel Foundation Town House.

A member of the Carmel Art Association, Mr. Beller studied with Guy MacCoy. He is represented in numerous private collections and has exhibited at, among others, the galleries of the Laguna Beach Art Association, La Jolla Art Association, and in Palos Verdes, San Francisco and Sacramento.

The current exhibit is a series, representing styles which he has developed since 1957.

The Town House, located at Lincoln and Eighth, is open to the public Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A group show of the work of local photographers is now on exhibition in the American Federation of Arts Gallery on Lincoln Street and will be on display for the rest of this month.

Being shown are prints by Ansel Adams, Jim Ziegler, Al Weber, Wynn Bullock, Brooke Elgie, Brett Weston, William Current, Liliane DeCock, Barbara McKenzie, Eileen Dufur, Ed Whitworth, Steve Crouch, Art Connell, Henry Gilpin, Richard Garrod, Jerry Lebeck, Gerry Sharpe and Russell Cummings. Both black and white and color photographs are included in this exhibition.

All artists — professional, amateur and potential (12 years and under)—are invited to enter the third annual religious art show to be held in mid-January at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, according to Chaplain Thomas J. Burke, coordinator for the event.

Open to all faiths and all types of religious art, the show will be held in the main ballroom of Herrmann Hall at the school. Entries will be divided into three categories, amateur, professional and children twelve years and under.

Over 250 pieces of art were on display last year. Show officials expect an even larger number this year. The show is sponsored by the postgraduate school's Catholic Chapel Guild.

Further information can be obtained from the Catholic chaplain at the school.

Harry Murphy of Carmel is the artist who designed the poster which the visitors and convention bureau of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce is distributing across the nation and abroad. The poster design reflects facets of the Peninsula in three pictures. One shows a mission, the

Community Theatre Officers Elected

New officers were elected and new directions envisioned at the board meeting of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula on Tuesday. Francis Heisler was selected as president of the local little theatre group. George Thomson, Colonel Allan Weinfield and Fritz Wurzmann are first, second and third vice presidents respectively. Mrs. C. A. Chappell accepted the office of secretary.

The meeting closed a half year's activity by proposing several new departures to promote wider participation in local theatrical work. These are to include workshops, open to all, in both "principles of acting" and "stage crafts" under the management of Mrs. Marcia Hovick and Cole Weston. The workshops are planned as "cohesive transition" between interested but inexperienced residents and performers whose natural talents are polished through working theatrical techniques.

Appointed to head a new play reading committee, charged with recommendations for next season's offerings, was stage director Norman McPhee. The total emphasis was expected to shift to shorter run-of-the-play schedules, probably five or six weeks. This will avail the community of a more varied selection of theater fare. Anyone interested in participating and joining the Community Theatre is urged to telephone the membership chairman, Mrs. L. Bruce Meyer (624-3467).

KITCHEN SINK SCHOOL

Children learn valuable lessons from dishwashing time — if it is made pleasant with talk and laughter. Even though their help may frequently be doubtful and an occasional dish need a re-do, the kids themselves benefit by acquiring habits of cleanliness and cooperation which will last their lifetime.

And speaking of cleanliness, Americans are the cleanest people on earth — they use more water per day per family than the people of any other nation. This heavy usage imposes a heavy responsibility upon the operators of public water supply systems as water must be plentiful, available at all times, and, above all, safe. To maintain a high standard of service, plant facilities must be expanded and improved continually to take care of increasing demands.

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

In French it's revellon or staying awake for midnight supper. This isn't difficult in France since everyone goes to midnight mass on Christmas Eve. We asked a French Carmel friend to describe Noel in her native Orleans. Joelle Hathaway has been vice-president of l'Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula for many years. She and her husband, Colonel Hathaway, entertain at revellon with nostalgic enthusiasm here on our Peninsula.

"The Christmas tree is not trimmed until after returning from midnight mass," explains Joelle. "Another difference," she continues, "is that the infant Jesus is not placed in his creche until after supper. Also the children's shoes are put close to the fireplace instead of hanging up stockings."

In her girlhood Christmas days, Joelle's father always cut down their fragrant fir tree in the surrounding forest. A fine huntsman, he also supplied the pheasants for the family revellon. The children went into the center of the city with their cook to purchase the freshest of little oysters called belons. They have a nut-like flavor, with ice crystals on the shells, since it is cold at Noel in Orleans. They also visited the escargot (snail) stall and the marron (chestnut) vendor.

In Joelle's ancestral home, preparations went on several days before Christmas. Terrines of Strasbourg pate de foie gras avec truffes had arrived well in advance. Small milk sausages called petits boudins blancs were in evidence with other friandises (delicacies).

REVEILLON DE NOEL
(French Christmas Eve Midnight Supper)

Hors d'Oeuvres Varies

Pate de foie gras—Salmon Sausages

Les Petites Gougeres aux fines herbes (Cheese Pastries with herbs)

Petit Fours—Buche de Noel (Christmas Log Cake)

Fresh Fruits — Assorted Nuts Raisins

Champagne throughout Reveillon
Hot Chocolate and Brioches for the Young

A large assortment of hors d'oeuvres is displayed—thin slices of ham, hard cooked eggs, olives, shrimp, smoked salmon, sausages and various cheeses with butter and breads are in order. Oysters are served icy cold on the half shell with little forks. They are seasoned with lemon juice, salt and cayenne.

En lieu of the genuine Strasbourg pate, a fair facsimile is the following:

CHICKEN LIVER PATE

2 strips bacon; 1 lb. chicken livers; 1 small onion; 1 tsp. salt; 1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice; pinch, each, pepper and paprika; 1 small garlic clove put through press; mayonnaise; cognac; fines herbes; crackers.

Cook bacon until crisp. Drain off grease. In same pan, slowly cook chicken livers until pink color is gone. Mash them with silver fork, removing membrane. Add seasonings and moisten with mayonnaise and cognac (or bourbon) to spreading consistency. Add crumbled bacon. Put in crystal bowl and chill until serving time. Garnish with chopped herbs. Crackers and small knives complete this service. As it is very popular, triple recipe for 24.

The Frenchman's favorite puff paste is gougere filled with herbed cheese.

GOUGERES AUX FINES

HERBES (Makes 20 pastries)

1 pkg. (8½ oz.) cream puff mix; ½ tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. finely ground pepper; 1 cup milk; 1 tsp. fine herbes; 4 eggs; 1 cup finely diced Gruyere cheese.

Crumble both sticks of cream puff mix into heated bowl. Sprinkle salt and pepper over mix. Heat milk and fines herbes to boiling. Stir into cream puff mix all at once until mixture leaves sides of bowl. Beat in eggs, one at a time, mixing each in completely before adding the next. Stir in all but 1 tbsp. cheese. Drop by dessert spoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheet, leaving 2 inches between each spoonful. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in hot (425 F.) oven for about 30 minutes. Do not allow to burn. Good warm or cool.

Perhaps you would prefer to be more elaborate and produce a Galantine of Pheasant, which is pheasant in aspic. In this case, follow your favorite recipe for chicken in aspic. Decorate the masterpiece with truffles on a mask of mayonnaise. Here in Carmel, we often use strips of sauteed fresh dark mushrooms and/or sliced pitted ripe olives as near substitutes for the aristocratic truffles. Serve the galantine with a salad of endives sprinkled with broken walnut meats and dressed with white wine vinegar and oil. Or you could serve this same crisp salad with sliced cold turkey or chicken covered with the following classical

SAUCE CHAUD-FROID

1 qt. chicken or turkey broth, strained; 1 env. unflavored gelatine; fines herbes; 1 egg yolk; 1 pint double cream; 1 cup dry white wine; salt and pepper; pimiento and capers; watercress.

Dissolve gelatine in a little cold water and add to boiling broth. Allow to cool, then add the fines herbes, egg yolk, cream, wine and seasonings. Beat until thickened, then chill. Pour over sliced roasted chicken or turkey. Decorate with pimiento strips and capers and surround with watercress.

As for the traditional petits fours, buche de Noel and brioches, these are fortunately available just as they are in France, at Carmel's excellent French Boiserie Patisserie.

What Is Arts Inc. And Who Are Its Directors?

BY ELEANOR J. MELVIN

Arts, Inc., a non-profit organization of prominent Peninsula citizens dedicated to the founding of a cultural center in the area, is now formally incorporated but officially lost its name in the process. Because other corporations in the state have names confusingly similar to Arts, Inc., the local group's official designation is now Cultural Arts of the Monterey Peninsula. Members will continue to use the Arts, Inc., label unofficially, however, according to Malcolm S. Millard, Arts, Inc. chairman, who, on November 20, told the Sunset Commission that city-owned Sunset Center is still the favored location for the development planned by the group he represents.

Lack of suitable facilities on the Peninsula for theatre arts, musical programs, graphic arts exhibitions, permanent collections and related activities led to the organization of Arts, Inc., last April. The group expects to build, operate and maintain a cultural center by private contributions and grants without recourse to Peninsula tax funds.

Arts, Inc. has formally requested the California Arts Commission for a feasibility study of the project and aid in selecting a suitable site. The group has expressed interest in the Sunset property in Carmel. A site adjacent to the Del Monte Shopping Center north of Agujito is also being considered.

Incorporators and first directors of Arts, Inc. are Malcolm S. Millard; Richard Osborne, Mrs. Rody B. Holt, Will V. Shaw, C. Mark Thomas, Mrs. Kenneth Walker, Kenneth A. Ehrman and Herman W. Fletcher.

All members of Arts, Inc. have a keen and knowledgeable interest in many phases of the arts. They have travelled widely in this country and abroad and are aware of present-day cultural developments. Many of them serve on one or more boards of directors of local arts or community organizations and have a thorough understanding of the community, its talents, scope and possibilities. All feel that present facilities for the arts are highly inadequate. They believe that, with the cooperation of local arts organizations and the support of the public of the area as well as that of many people of other parts of the country who know and enjoy the Monterey Peninsula, it will be possible to build a center which will not only serve many needs but become an outstanding asset to the community.

Chairman Malcolm Millard reports that a recent survey indicates that at least eight important music, theatre and art organizations require virtually the same facilities with regard to size of auditorium, number of class and meeting rooms, office space and library facilities and that one well planned center could serve them all. Mr. Millard, a Carmel attorney, was president of the Carmel Playhouse when it was built. He is an accomplished musician who has been a frequent participant in the Bach Festival. He is interested in many phases of the arts and in the community as a whole and is presently serving as chairman of the board of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies.

Mrs. Kenneth Walker of Pebble Beach has wide experience in the arts having served on the boards of the Ballet Foundation of New York, the San Francisco Museum of Art and the La Jolla Theatre and Arts Council. She is presently serving on the board of the White Oaks Theatre of Carmel Valley and is a supervisor of the Community Hospital auxiliary and on the board of Beacon House. With all these activities, she still finds time to be a Sunday painter.

C. Mark Thomas of Carmel Valley also serves on the White Oaks Theatre Board and the Community Hospital board. He is a member of the Foreign Students Committee of MPC and of the Union Health and Welfare Funds Committee. He is a member of the Festival Theatre Board and has a keen interest in seeing good cultural facilities developed in the area.

Richard Osborne of Pebble Beach, former president of Del Monte Properties Company, has lived in this area for 18 years. An amateur painter, he became an incorporator of Arts, Inc. because of his interest in the community and his desire to see its many talents and cultural activities have proper housing.

Mrs. Rody B. Holt of Carmel, who heads the local cancer society and is a member of the Monterey Republican Central Committee, is a former San Franciscan long interested in the arts and in her community. She is a past president of the Carmel Women's Republican Club and is presently on the board of the Monterey County Symphony Guild and the Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Kenneth A. Ehrman, Monterey attorney, has always been active in community affairs with a particular emphasis on music. He is a member of the Monterey County Symphony Board and the Carmel Music Society. Although his primary interest is the law and legal writing, he finds time to serve also on the Monterey Fund for Education, the U.S.O. and the Family Service Agency.

Will V. Shaw, Carmel architect, is president of the Monterey County Fair Board and chairman of the Foundation for Environmental Design. His many activities in the community have led him to an awareness of the lack of proper facilities for both the performing and the visual arts. He feels an adequate center is a vital necessity. He is a member of the board of the Monterey Foundation.

Another Arts Inc. member serving on the Monterey Foundation Board is Herman W. Fletcher of Pebble Beach. Mr. Fletcher, a long time resident of this area, received his schooling in France and has been a college teacher. He has served on the board of Robert Louis Stevenson School, for five years was president of the Old Capital Club of Monterey and is a member of the board of the Carmel Music Society. He is in the hotel business and his other principal interest is painting. Mr. Fletcher feels strongly that the Peninsula needs a fine permanent art gallery and collection of art as well as other cultural facilities. Eleanor J. Melvin is acting as executive secretary of the Arts Inc. organization.

Mrs. Williams

Private family services for Mrs. Margaret Ann Williams, who died Friday at her home on Monte Verde street after a long illness, were held Saturday at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel, with the Reverend David Hill officiating.

A resident of Carmel for the past 15 years, she was a native of England, where she was born February 22, 1880.

Mrs. Williams is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Rust, a granddaughter, Mrs. Linda Yingling, and two great grandchildren, all of Carmel; a grandson, Lance A. Withers of San Diego; and two sisters, Mrs. Park A. Van Bebbler

Japanese Film Next In MPC Free Series

"The Lower Depths," a masterful and imaginative transposition of Gorky's classic to a Japanese tenement at the beginning of the 19th century, will be the film offering of the Monterey Peninsula College Theater Arts Group tomorrow at 7 and 9 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

The story concerns an array of derelicts assembled in an ancient lodging house: a sick old of Petaluma and Mrs. May G. Kay of Oakland.

Insurnment took place in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove.

lady, a tinker, a broken-down Kabuki actor, a thief, a street-walker and a cowardly former Samurai. They are subject to the whims of a corrupt landlord and his wife (Isuzu Yamada), who has her eye on the thief (Toshiro Mifune), who loves her beautiful sister. Despite the wretchedness of their surroundings and the intrigues boiling around them, these people live vividly in their imagination. From the dregs of life, Kurosawa and Gorky show them distilling hope and humor.

In First Decade, MPVS Has Given Peninsula Organizations $201,249

The annual summary of business at the December meeting of Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services quickly metamorphosed into a Christmas tea honoring past presidents plus a tenth anniversary celebration of the organization.

President Ruth Blanchard, whose term ended with a standing ovation and applause from all members and guests, briefly described the history of the society stating that it had its roots in World War II as the American Women's Volunteer Services, becoming MPVS in 1955. During this ten-year period this group of women who operate the Thrift Shop at 785

Broadway, Seaside, on a volunteer basis had earned and donated to local peninsula organizations the total sum of $201,249.57, she added. As a comparison of growth Miss Blanchard remarked that in 1955 MPVS earned only $2,500, its first donation given to the founding of the Visiting Nurse Association, while in 1965 Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services donated $30,220.09 to 27 different local charities.

Emphasizing that it is even more important to give money away with care, Miss Blanchard announced the November donation from Thrift Shop proceeds to the Women's Auxiliary of the Community Hospital was $4,961.91, the result of a month-long campaign on the part of the auxiliary. Mrs. J. Manfred Crane, chairman of this hospital auxiliary project, and her committee assisted MPVS members not only in collecting huge amounts of saleable merchandise but in manning the Thrift Shop daily with crews of workers.

Background decoration for the handsome crimson and gold tea table set in the lobby of the Monterey USO was a display of sketches and drawings made by children attending The Lyceum, an organization which sponsors additional classes in special fields for gifted children in grades 9 through 12, drawn from all the schools of the Monterey Peninsula. This is another project dear to the hearts of MPVS who not only have a member, Mrs. Thomas Christian, as liaison officer on the board of the association for gifted students, but have contributed financially to its continued functioning. Many of the works of art shown at the USO were on display in the foyer of Sunset auditorium during the Monterey County Symphony concert last week.

While saying that the unqualified success of Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services was due to the dedication of many such outstanding and hard working women, Miss Blanchard introduced those past presidents honored at the tea: Mrs. Archer M. Allen, Mrs. Charles M. Jett, Mrs. Lincoln Noelle, Mrs. Rollo Payne and Miss Claire Kennedy. Past presidents similarly honored but unable to be present were Mrs. John W. Simpson and Mrs. Carl E. Menneken.

Incoming president for 1966, Mrs. C. E. Howland of Pacific Grove, introduced her board of directors. They are vice president, Mrs. C. L. Underwood; recording secretary, Mrs. Wm. F. Pratt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas H. Bradley; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Healey. Standing committee chairmen will be parliamentarian, Mrs. Avery Tompkins; nominating, Mrs. I. B. Farrior; hospitality, Mrs. David Lumsden; membership, Mrs. Thurman H. Bane; Thrift Shop, Mrs. R. W.

Scheffler; office, Mrs. Frank Lang; finance, Miss Irene Palmer.

Surprise announcement made at the meeting by Mrs. Earl M. Oren was that the Thrift Shop will be completely remodeled and redecorated. This unusual and most welcome gift of Local 272 of the Monterey Peninsula Painting Contractors Union will be received during the period from 4:00 p.m. today and noon on January 3, when the shop is closed for the holidays.

On January 3, or any time thereafter, the new Thrift Shop staff will be delighted to receive discards of re-saleable merchandise. Pick up service may be requested from Mrs. Ethel Wright (624-1053), chairman of the 1966 pick-up committee or a telephone call to the Thrift Shop requesting Mrs. Wright's assistance will receive prompt attention.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" This is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be presented in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

A major theme will be the ultimate supremacy of the spiritual laws through which God's will and government of the universe is expressed. The Golden Text is from I Chronicles (16:31): "Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice; and let men say among nations, The Lord reigneth."

In addition to selected passages from the Bible on this topic, there will be readings from the Christian Science textbook. Among them will be these lines: "Suns and planets teach grand lessons. The stars make night beautiful, and the leaflet turns naturally towards the light. In the order of Science, in which the Principle is above what it reflects, all is one grand concord" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 240.)

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

CHRISTMAS EVENTS AT BIG SUR

The spirit and signs of Christmas are everywhere evident along the Sur Coast. The peaceful and beautiful countryside beckons all to come and enjoy the loveliness of this special season. The hills and canyons and coastal ridges have a soft tinge of green, the results of the good rains. Colors of fall still linger and the residents are ready to share the joy of the season.

COMMUNITY PARTY

Tomorrow night, in Big Sur Grange Hall, there will be the annual Christmas party. The "party" represents the combined efforts of members of the Captain Cooper School, the Parents Club, the Grange, the merchants, motel, restaurant and inn keepers and an abundance of other community-minded residents of Big Sur. For those who have been working on the program plans, it is described as one that is to be "more fabulous than ever."

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bradford are combining their artistic talents to design and fabricate decorations for the Grange Hall. The evening will begin with a unique version of "The Nutcracker Suite" with a cast of the first and second graders at Captain Cooper School and others who are members of Lilli Selvig's ballet class.

Staging of the Nutcracker Suite is under the direction of Gene Perrine and Mrs. Selvig. The production will be complete with lavish costumes, an abundance of music and dance, and even a flying carpet. Mrs. Selvig, whose husband George Selvig teaches the upper grades at the Cooper School, is a native of Denmark and a former member of the Royal Danish Ballet. (When the Royal Danish Ballet was in San Francisco recently, on one of its rare United States tours, Mrs. Selvig spent five days attending performances and visiting with her friends in the company). Gene Perrine, teacher of music within the Carmel Unified School District and director of the Little Lyric Theater of Big Sur and the Potluck Revue, has for years given of his time, talent and enthusiasm in "putting on the show" at the annual Christmas party.

Following the musical production, Santa Claus, with helpers, will give each child a hand-fashioned stocking filled with candy, fruit, nuts and a gift. Still later in the evening everyone will enjoy a social hour and the favorite foods brought by each family.

CHRISTMAS SCENES AT NEPENTHE

Now greeting visitors to the Phoenix Shop, at Nepenthe, which houses an abundant collection of arts and crafts of local artists, as well as carefully chosen gifts from the continents of the world, is a nativity scene, appropriately placed just inside the entrance to the shop. The scene includes the babe Jesus, Mary, Joseph, the shepherds, a donkey, a sheep, a cow, doves. The figures, which vary in size from 18 to 28 inches, are made of wire, paper padding and a composition clay and are clad in meticulously fashioned clothing of the period of Christ's birth. Each detail of the scene, which includes the manger, a thatched roof, a straw floor, is the work of a Carmel artist, Edythe Plamondon.

On the lower floor is another of Mrs. Plamondon's tableaux, that of Charles Dickens carolers. The setting, a snowy night in the middle 1800's shows an English lady, two English gentlemen, two teen-agers, and two small boys. The richly costumed figures are complete with mufflers, fur trimmed hats, frock coats and each is singing in front of Hayshead's Tavern and a sweet and smoke shop.

These figures and settings of Edythe Plamondon have been viewed by countless individuals since their completion a few years ago. During other seasons they have been displayed at Holman's Department Store, the Mark Thomas Inn, Pebble Beach Art Gallery, Irving Lundborg's in Carmel and have traveled to other communities including Santa Ana where they were on view at the Charles Bowers Memorial Museum.

Mrs. Plamondon's interest and knowledge of history and her love of this unique art form are reflected in the authentic and appealing figures which result. One might say that she "stumbled onto" the art form of creating little people, animals and birds which has brought her pleasure and satisfaction. She discovered her own artistic talent when she began "moulding heads that pleased her." It was not long before she was developing whole figures and "giving them character," then costumes were fashioned and all the other accessories which make up the delightful tableaux.

A native of Massachusetts, Mrs. Plamondon is the mother of two sons. Paul, the eldest, is interested in photography and landscape design. Her younger son, Peter, is a student at the San Francisco Academy of Fine Arts.

PALO COLORADO SCHOOL FAIR

The third annual Christmas Fair will be held on Saturday from 11:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. at Palo Colorado School on Highway One 12 miles south of Carmel.

Since the beginning days of the school year, the girls and boys of the school, their parents and friends and their teacher, Mrs. Nancy Bottero, have been thinking about and creating useful, decorative and interesting articles which will be offered for sale on Saturday. As in previous years, the abundant array of items, that will doubtless surprise and delight visitors, will be placed about the different levels of the school grounds. There will be Yule logs made of eucalyptus bark and tied with brightly colored ribbon, wreaths of native greens, cones and seeds, and many other decorative pieces made from native materials gathered from within the Palo Colorado Canyon area. Pony rides and pony cart rides, Christmas foods, candy, cookies, felt covers for beneath a Christmas tree, Christmas card holders (felt material), and even cartoons of yourself or your friends done by one of the talented members of the school, are among the varied and interesting things that can be enjoyed at the fair.

The thought that prompted this giving of an annual fair is perhaps most significant. The students at the little one room school down the coast wanted to obtain books for their school library. They decided to do something about it, and conceived the idea of making "things," selling them and thus raise money to buy books. Their efforts have been rewarded in a very tangible way for their school library is growing.

Do come to the fair — for fun, food and unusual and useful gifts. Should it rain on Saturday, the fair will be held on Sunday.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAMS

On Wednesday at 3 p.m., colored slides of English gardens will be shown by Carl Bensberg at the Carmel Foundation Town House. Tea will follow the program and all interested persons are welcome.

Mr. Bensberg will also show his slides and present a program of Christmas songs tonight following the Christmas potluck dinner of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club at the Town House.

Superb Performance Of Bach's Christmas Oratorio Sunday In Centuries-Old Carmel Mission

BY JACK BENSON

The centuries-old basilica at Carmel Mission resounded last Sunday with monumental Christmas music which was created in the same age. It was not many years after Johann Sebastian Bach completed his Christmas Oratorio in 1735 that a solemn mass was sung on Christmas Eve in the new basilica. The Monterey Peninsula Chorale Society and Chamber Orchestra and director John Gosling must have had momentous feelings as they performed this music in this place. They sang and played in the same spirit that inspired Bach to inscribe his Christmas Oratorio with the words Soli Deo Gloria.

The work is in six parts, requiring almost four hours to perform. Maestro Gosling wisely chose to present it in two concerts on Sunday afternoon and evening. The first three parts are closely bound, all being built on the basic story of Christmas as related in the Gospel according to St. Luke, Chapter 2, verses 1-20. Bach intended Part IV for New Year's Day, and reserved the last two parts for the story of The Three Wise Men from the East. Every part begins with a chorus expressing the jubilation of Christmas, except Part II which opens with the famous Sinfonia from this Christmas Oratorio. Each part closes with festive arrangements of chorales with instrumental interludes.

In addition to chorus and chamber orchestra, Bach uses five soloists who sing the recitatives and arias which, throughout the Christmas Oratorio, ponder on the significance of the Biblical narrative for mankind. The excellent singers whom John Gosling procured for these roles were Leona Gordon, soprano; Harriet Bird, angel and echo soprano; Claudine Carlson, mezzo-soprano; Charles Stone, tenor and evangelist; Marvin Klebe, bass.

Bach also demands extensive solo work from members of the chamber orchestra, and in Sunday's concerts there was distinguished playing by John Wittenberg and Owen Dunsford, violins; Ernest Smith, playing John Gosling's Clarinet trumpet; Raymond Fabrizio, flute; Charles Price, oboe; Melvin Buffo, English horn; Marilyn Mayer, bassoon; Byron MacTavish, organ. Providing a fine continuo throughout were Margaret Fabrizio, harpsichord, and Helen Stross, cello.

When all was over, and the festive robes and instruments were being put away, there were calls from the choristers for the conductor, and a gift from the Chor-

SENIOR CITIZENS CHRISTMAS BUS TOUR

Members of the Carmel Foundation and other senior citizen centers on the Peninsula will be guests of the Bay Rapid Transit Company on Tuesday evening, when buses will take them on a tour to see the Christmas lights and decorations in the Peninsula area.

ale Society was presented. It was a collage, originated by Claudine Van Vleet, a sponsor and member of the chorus, which tells the story of John Gosling and the Monterey County Symphony's growth and accomplishments during the past five years. Maestro Gosling, his singers, and his players deserve the extreme gratitude of the community for their gift—a superb performance of Bach's Christmas Oratorio at the Carmel Mission Basilica, and we wish them a happy and blessed Christmas.

Ivy Fehring

Services were held yesterday afternoon in the Paul Funeral Chapel for Mrs. Ivy Rae Fehring, who died Sunday in a local hospital after a period of failing health. The Reverend Walter Grumm of Bethlehem Lutheran Church of Monterey officiated, assisted by the Reverend Burkert Cree of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula.

A former resident of Terre Haute, Indiana, she had made her home in Carmel for the past three years with her husband, Lynn C. Fehring. The couple observed their 59th wedding anniversary here on Thanksgiving Day.

Born Ivy Rae Thompson in Columbus, Indiana, she was a member of the women's choir and active in the work of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in that city before moving to Terre Haute. She belonged also to the Purdue Alumni Club of Columbus, the Home Economics Garden Club and the Cancer Research Society.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Fehring leaves three sons, Ted T. Fehring of Carmel, Raymond H. Fehring of Santa Ana, and W. P. (Dutch) Fehring of Menlo Park; 12 grandchildren, including Julie L. and Jo Ann Fehring of Carmel, and six great-grandchildren.

Serving as active pallbearers were Herbert B. Blanks, George V. Yates, Malcolm Foster, Eugene Scheffer, John Klaus, Walter Bevanse, William Shepard and James Pruitt. Honorary pallbearers were Arthur Weber, George Dear, Peter Kutschera, Leonard Fletcher, Dr. Robert V. Hoffman, Elmer Windhorst, Thomas N. Hooper and Fred Elkington.

Burial took place in El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mrs. Fehring may do so to the Monterey County Cancer Society, P.O. Box 1028, Monterey, or to charities of their choice.

which is now the city hall.

But let's go back farther than this. Robert Louis Stevenson tells of walking from Monterey through a pine forest until suddenly he saw Carmel Bay spread before him. William Overstreet, founder of the Pine Cone 50 years ago, named this paper what it is because he loved the pine forest in which he lived. Argyll Campbell, the city attorney who framed the now famous preamble to Carmel's zoning law, wrote in this paper about arriving, in 1914, where "the pines and hills and waters meet . . . Carmel." Herbert Heron chose a natural amphitheatre on a slope wooded with pines and oaks for the site of the Forest Theater in 1910.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford University, who first saw Carmel in 1880, built the first house in Carmel's Professors Row in 1904. It was located at the corner of Camino Real and Seventh. Dr. Jordan chose this site because at that time there were no trees below Camino Real and the ocean.

Frank Powers and Frank Devendorf, the original developers of Carmel, saw the advantages of the wooded slopes above the open area along the beach. They planted trees, cypresses nearest the shore and pines above, to enlarge the forest which enclosed the village. Old pictures of Carmel in 1905 show these trees as little more than seedlings. Mr. Powers and Mr. Devendorf began Carmel's reforestation program. Through the years, this program has been maintained. Trees have been protected as one of Carmel's greatest assets . . . but not redwoods.

One has only to look at Del Monte Forest and Point Lobos to see what the natural tree growth was in this area before man came. Redwoods are lacking.

North and south of the Monterey Peninsula, redwoods did and still do flourish in the canyons along the coast. They are beautiful trees . . . where they belong . . . but not in Carmel where the Monterey pine is indigenous, native oaks spread gnarled branches and Monterey cypresses, indigenous to the Peninsula, have been introduced to be sculptured by the wind.

Council Consolidates Insurance Policies, Approves Sunset Uses

During their adjourned meeting Tuesday night, the city council unanimously approved a consolidated insurance coverage policy which will save the city $1,960 in basic premium payments. This plan was worked out for the council by Robert E. Little.

The council approved the uses for Sunset Center, with minor changes, submitted by the Sunset Commission. Added to the proposals was the use of Sunset Center as an election polling place. Eliminated were concession sales of postcards and souvenirs. This was done because the council considered that as the municipal cultural and community center is adjacent to the business district, no hardship would be suffered by having these sales across the street in the approved commercial district. Councilmen also added another use, that of city-sponsored social and cultural activities. They limited the sales of food and non-alcoholic drinks to vending machines to avoid "housekeeping operations" and to keep out "restaurants per se." City offices, on a temporary basis were approved as a use, providing such use does not jeopardize community and cultural uses.

A payment of $31 to Maurice Grimshaw for eyeglasses destroyed while serving as a volunteer fireman was approved. Diagonal parking on Junipero Street between Ocean and Seventh was authorized.

An amendment to the city's salary and classification plan creating the position of police desk clerk and police desk sergeant was approved. Lester V. Fletcher was approved for the latter position.

Other personnel matters included the employment of Allen I. Hutton as senior streetman; James Cardwell as a casual fire engineer. Confirmed was the status of Charles Grimshaw as a fireman and Morris Singletray as a policeman. The same two men were advanced in the salary range as were, also, Paul Artellan of the fire department and Albert A. Shoars of the street department.

Disagreement On Dune Subdivision

Subdivision of the sand dune property formerly owned by the late Elizabeth McClung White caused considerable discussion at the planning commission meeting yesterday afternoon.

A use permit to divide 33,200 square feet of the dunes property contiguous to the city beach lands on the west and south, into four building sites, has been requested by Jack Patterson, present owner of "The Sand Dunes" property.

Following a public hearing on September 15, the planning commission recommended that Mr. Patterson meet with the police and fire chiefs and the commission's land use committee and planning staff. The result of these meetings was a report containing specific conditions under which a use permit could be granted.

Yesterday, objections to the report from Mr. Patterson were heard. He agreed to an access easement of 20 feet on the north property line but objected to a ten-foot setback from this easement to the wall of any building. This requirement had been required by the fire chief to provide maneuverability for fire fighting equipment.

Mr. Patterson was willing to pave the easement, if he were allowed to use blacktop, but did not wish to post the length of the easement with "no parking" signs. He went along with the condition that any structure on the property should be set back 15 feet from the city-owned dune land.

As an alternative to the easement problem, planners yesterday amended the report under consideration by providing that the setbacks along the access easement for the three easterly lots might be 30 feet from the north property line or five feet from the easement, and that the setback be ten feet from the easement on the westerly lot.

Commissioners approved the report with the above amendments and asked the city attorney to prepare a resolution for a use permit with the conditions stated in the report. This resolution will be acted upon in January. Mr. Patterson was told that, following this action, he has the right to appeal to the city council.

Tight Control On Auctions In New Law

In order to conduct a sale by public outcry, a permit, issued annually by Carmel's chief of police, must be presented to the city clerk by the applicant for such a business. This permit must state the name of the person conducting the business and a fee of $150 must be paid by this person. If more than one person is to conduct sales on the premises of the business, each must obtain the permit and pay the fee.

The police chief will not issue the permit until it has been proved by investigation, that the applicant is of good moral character, has not been found guilty of committing a felony, obtaining money under false pretenses, embezzlement, or violating the new law.

Before a business license can be issued to any applicant for public outcry business, a surety bond equal to the highest single sale of the previous year, but in no case less than $10,000, must be given to the city clerk. Such a bond will be required for each and every person who is to conduct sales under the license. A business license tax will also be required.

In addition, an inventory of stock with itemized cost price must be maintained at all times by a public outcry business. At the end of each quarter, this inventory, plus any additional items added to the stock, must be sent to the city clerk with record of the minimum selling price of goods on consignment for sale.

Furthermore, the new law prohibits misrepresentation of the worth of articles offered for sale or false representation that goods offered are stock in trade damaged by fire, or closing out stock, of the person obtaining the permit, or some other person.

The new law makes it a misdemeanor for a "shill" to be used by a public outcry business. All persons involved in merchandising by public outcry must be identified by a clearly visible badge or be considered a "shill." All bidding must be clearly audible.

Another provision of the new ordinance is that all merchandise which is to be offered for sale must be publicly displayed in an adequately lighted area on the premises before and on the day of any sale.

An unconditional guarantee that no sale shall be complete until the 30th day following deposit of the purchase price with the public outcry business is also in the law.

This condition allows a buyer to return merchandise, rescind the sale, without condition or cause, and receive a full refund of the deposit or payment during the 30-day period.

Lastly, all merchandise announced as intended sales on a certain day must be offered for sale on the day announced.

Any violation of the conditions in the new public outcry sales law, shall be deemed a misdemeanor subject to $1,000 fine for each violation, if upheld in court. If it has been proven that a "shill" has been employed by a public outcry concern, this business will have its license revoked for a period of one year. Any other violation of the new law will be punished, too, by the same revocation.

Planners To Study Past Policies On City Landscaping

tion program. Commissioner Fred Keeble strongly supported her proposal.

Following public hearings, requests for three use permits were referred to the land use committee for study and report in January. These were for a seven-space parking facility on the west side of Mission north of L'Espalier Court by 977 Incorporated; a third story basement for parking at Hofsas House requested by Jack Theis; and for remodeling of the Richfield Oil station at San Carlos and Seventh.

Nancy Lang was given a use permit for a modern dancing school on Mission Street above the Mediterranean Market. Conditions were that the permit is not transferable; there be no instruction after 10 p.m.; no more than six students at a time are to be instructed; no folk or ballroom teaching be given; and the sound level of the school shall not be objectionable to the adjacent businesses and the public.

January 6 was set as the date of a public hearing for one-lot parking facility for Cypress West Hotel which is planned to be located in the residence zone on the west side of Lincoln Street between Seventh and Eighth avenues.

Barnet Segal was given permission to remodel the front of the Carmel Wine Shop. A sign for this business, requested by A. S. Compagno, was denied as being too large. Robert A. Davey's revised sign for Davey Paintings in Su Vecino Court was approved. The Carmel Arts Commission was asked to relocate a proposed storage room at the Forest Theater. The commission went on record as favoring retention of a public right of way along Red Eagle Alley. City Attorney William Burleigh informed the planners that the owner of two Ocean Avenue store premises, which back on the alley, is prepared to bring legal action against the city about closing this right of way.

Advent Observances In Carmel Churches

Special observances of the Advent season will take place in Carmel churches this weekend.

ALL SAINTS'

Christmas season services will begin at All Saints' Episcopal Church on Sunday with a special performance of Bach's cantata, "Come, Redeemer of Our Race."

Soloists who will join with the choir for the performance include Harriet Bird, soprano, and Lieutenant Robert Pearson (USN), tenor. Richard Sheere, conductor of the Seaside High School choir, will conduct the group. Robert Forbes, director of the All Saints' choir will be at the organ.

Preceding this choral service there will be a meeting of the adult discussion group at 10 a.m. in the parish hall. The Reverend David Hill, rector, will lead the group discussion of the God is Dead movement.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

Worship at the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday morning will be based on the Christmas theme. In the afternoon, at 4 p.m., there will be a family worship service planned specially for children.

"The Christmas Story," with script by Ann Welchner, director of the Cherub Choir, will be presented. The children who are members of the choir will sing a number of ancient and modern carols popular with children's groups. Florence Venn will do the narration.

Children from other churches are invited to the Church of the Wayfarer for this advent observance.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

Young people of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula are being honored during the Christmas season by the revival of a custom of the Middle Ages. This is the choosing of a Boy Bishop for the Advent season. He is Parker Johnson of Carmel Valley and the surplice, cape, stole, cross, ring, mitre and crook of his office were bestowed on him by boys of the church school during a recent service. They were Billy Smith, Richard Colvin, Randal and Bradley Keith and Stanley Shepard.

The Boy Bishop will preside at the opening of church school services during Advent. He will also give the call to worship each Sunday and participate in other parts of the morning service. His term will end on Twelfth Night.

The children of the Community Church will join with the Ikthys Youth Choir on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. in a Christmas program at Carmel River School. Miss Dorothy Mason, a member of the church, has dramatized the nativity story which has been set to music, using a melody from Bach's Christmas Oratorio. The choir will be directed by John W. Farr.

New members will be received into the church this Sunday. Preceding the service, the Adult Seminar, meeting at 9:45 will hear Ernest S. Crosby review a recent book by Dr. Amos N. Wilder, "The Language of the Gospel," and the youth choir, following the afternoon program, will continue their carols at various places on the Peninsula, ending the evening at the Carmel home of Barbara Jeanne and Charles Pearson Jr.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, "Christmas In Music" will be offered at the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. James Farlinger will conduct the Chancel Choir in the two-part presentation. The first part will include carols of many lands. The second part will be a short cantata, "The Holy Birth" by Haydn Morgan.

Flora Weston

Private services have been held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Mrs. Flora Chandler Weston who died in a local hospital Monday after a lengthy illness.

A Carmel resident for more than 15 years, she was born in Chicago, Illinois, October 28, 1879.

For many years Mrs. Weston

COUNCIL PASSES NEW PARKING LAW

Tuesday night, the city council adopted the new off-street parking law for the business district. This ordinance demands, in future, off-street parking provision for employers and employees of any business in new structures, or buildings with major alterations or remodeling, in the commercial zones. An in lieu tax may be paid to the city by any business which cannot meet these requirements.

made her home in Los Angeles, where, as a young woman, she was a teacher in the Los Angeles City schools. She was the former wife of the late Edward Weston, world-renowned photographer of Carmel Highlands.

Mrs. Weston leaves four sons, Brett, Neil and Cole Weston of the Carmel area and Chandler Weston of Los Angeles; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Elias of Sacramento; nine grandchildren; and several great-grandchildren.

Inurnment took place in the family niche in Forest Lawn Memorial Park at Glendale. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.
